

In-Text Citation with CSE

The Name-Year system is recommended by many professors in the Dalhousie Department of Biology, but if you're not sure which system to use, be sure to check.

author's last name → [Ribbet 2010] ← publication year

All of these pieces of information must match the corresponding reference list entry exactly!

Example in-text citations, from fictional authors and sources:

Research has shown that the demographic of the fly is a key determining factor in the robustness of its flavour (Frog 1998).

You could also place part of the citation in the text as follows:

As mentioned in Frog's seminal article (1998), the demographic of the fly is a key determining factor in the robustness of its flavour.

In this example, the author's name is mentioned in the text itself; therefore, the name need not be repeated in the bracketed citation.

Cse style manual 7th ed. name-year

CSE offers three different, distinct styles, very similar to the Chicago Manual of Style. These are Always ask for clarification when youre unsure or no style is specified. Any additional citations of the same source use the same number as the initial citation. Entries in the reference list are numerically ordered. All references are first organized alphabetically in the bibliography, then assigned numbers in consecutive order. When that reference is then cited in the paper, only the corresponding number appears in parentheses. For indepth and very specific formatting questions, refer to The CSE Manual. The consultant team is available to assist you in person and online with writing projects for any course and any level of instruction. The Writing Center also offers specialized assistance for multimodal compositions or new media projects like digital narratives, blogs, websites, slideware presentations, and even YouTube videos. The References Page:

Documents using the CSE style of citation must contain a "References" page at the end of the text. The following are some examples of how to cite commonly-used references:

Book

Frog RA. 1998. Experts' guide to artisanal fly cuisine. 2nd Ed. Halifax: Imaginary Publishing INC.

Book, journal, and website titles are in sentence case!

Journal Article

Frog RA. 1997. The biology of delicious fly cuisine: enzymes and their mechanisms of action. Eur J Biochem. 130 (4): 435-445.

Journal names are abbreviated.

I know this style exist for EndNote, but I am interested in ZOTERO! What differences are you seeing and what exactly are you comparing them to We can certainly add a style for Leukos, but since it diverges from CSE on this, Id want to make sure its otherwise the same. So, are the bibliography entries right And thank you for info about CSE. And yes, bibliography entries are right, just the name of the article should not be presented in quotation marks, it could be like this Journal Articles General format Authors. Year. Article title. Journal title. Volume Numberissue numberinclusive pages. Example Taylor LH, Sucov EW. 1974. The movement of people toward lights. Place of publication publisher name. Number of pages. Example Wyszecski G, Stiles WS. 1982. Color science concepts and methods, quantitative data and formulae. 2nd ed. New York NY John Wiley and Sons. 968 p. Handbooks General format Editors, "editors". Year. Title. Edition information. Place of publication publisher name. Name of section; Inclusive pages. Example DiLaura DL, Houser KW, Mistrick RG, Steffy GR, editors. 2011. The lighting handbook reference and application. 10th ed. New York NY The Illuminating Engineering Society of North America. If exact words from the original are used, quotation marks are necessary. If you paraphrase or restate the idea in your own words, quotation marks are not required, but documentation of the source is still required. This page explains the CSE Council of Science Editors format. In this format, you briefly identify your sources in the text of your paper, then give the full information in the list of references at the end of the paper. The CSE style offers several methods of citing your references. This handout illustrates the NameYear method. Page numbers are not added. Use title Cool energy; the renewable solution to global warming 1991 No

Refer to this section for citing in APSA style American Political Science Association because APSA is adapted from the Chicago AuthorDate style. These parenthetical refer to sources listed at the end of the document. This might mean citing a source at the end of a sentence or in the middle of a sentence.

This might lead to long sentences, with citations immediately following the topics with which those sources are associated In the 2006 edition of the CSE Manual, secondary citations are not listed as a valid form of citation. Instead, find and cite the original source. Instead, these authors paraphrase or simply cite authors. The seventh edition of the CSE Manual does not provide specific rules for identifying the page number or other location information for that source. Separate studies by semicolon Assign letters chronologically, so that the work that was published first is listed, for example, as 2002a. Ecology 837 18601869. Ecology 8311 30233036. The full citation should include the specific publication information required by the MLA rules. This allows your reader to find the sources, if desired. Use the table below to find information about how to cite references in your papers, about common grammar questions, and to software that helps manage your references when writing your paper. Check out the library guides listed below for more information about citation management systems. Check out this entry about creating in-text citations in MS Word. Just choose MLA or APA and the type of source you need to create a citation for a book, a journal article, etc., and input all of the necessary information. Do not use extra lines or wider spaces in between entries. Ablah Library hours are also available on an automated phone line 3169783581. Our chat service is staffed during Reference Desk hours. Contact your subject librarian for assistance or to schedule an appointment for a research consultation. CSE offers two systems for documenting sources: 1 a Citation-Sequence system, 2 a Name-Year system. This guide explains the CSE Name-Year system, which is very similar to the Author-Date system used by the APA. Refer to the APA guide for more information and specific formatting examples. It emphasizes authors' names and dates of publication, both of which are important benchmarks denoting relevancy and validity in the social and the hard sciences. Regardless of contents, the parenthetical citation should immediately follow the cited material within a sentence and before the period if it is at the end of the sentence. In the case of quoted material, the citation is placed between the final quotation mark and the period at the end of the sentence. The abbreviation p, without a period, should precede the page numbers. No page numbers are necessary.

The citation format will vary according to whether the authors name is mentioned in the sentence being cited. The citation is placed in parentheses directly following the information being cited. When the citation falls at the end of the sentence, the parenthetical note precedes the end punctuation the Period. One space separates the authors name and the date. The date in parentheses should follow directly after mention of the authors name. The citation format varies according to whether the authors name is mentioned in the sentence being cited. When the citation falls at the end of the sentence, the parenthetical note precedes the end punctuation the period. In the case of a quote, paraphrase or specific piece of information, follow the date with a comma and page numbers. When the citation falls at the end of the sentence, the parenthetical note precedes the end punctuation the period. The reference list entry begins the same way. Arrange alphabetically when publication years are identical. It is located at the end of a document or book and contains all the bibliographic information needed to find out more about each cited source within the text. You may want to include sources that directly informed your thinking but are not explicitly cited in the text on a separate page entitled Additional References. Further reading suggestions or a fuller bibliography should be placed on yet another page entitled Additional Reading or Bibliography. Without it the in-text numbers would make little sense as they would no longer be pointing at any corresponding entries in the end documentation. Indent each subsequent line five spaces from the left margin the normal tab/default space. all scholarship. It is important that researchers give credit so readers can trace the ideas presented back to the sources. In fact, giving credit to experts and authoritative sources gives your conclusions validity that cannot be achieved by simply stating ones own opinions. Many databases allow you to export citations directly to EndNote. Users need to set up a free account to store their references. Quotes from sources should be used to bolster your ideas. Other peoples ideas need to be credited as well as their quoted words.
